Project Location(s)

Southern Nevada

Project Description

The Southern Nevada Green Building Partnership (SNGBP) grew from a need to build comfortable, energy efficient homes that use sustainable resources and leave a smaller environmental imprint. This voluntary program was designed to benefit buyers, jurisdictions, and builders alike. The program allows production builders who construct single-family homes in Southern Nevada to exceed the 2012 International Energy Conservation Code (IECC) in an "above code" program. The above code features required in the SNGBP program produce electric, gas, and water savings beyond current code requirements.
